4 Look at the objects of the verbs in the questions in Exercise 3. What happens to them in the answers?

B Grammar

1 The passive: form

The active voice shows what something does. The passive voice shows what happens to something. We make the passive with a form of the verb be + past participle.

Tense	Passive form: be + past participle (+ by + agent)
present simple	→ The union is run by 7 executive officers. present continuous	→ The union is being run by 7 executive officers. past simple	→ The union was run by 7 executive officers. past continuous	→ The union was being run by 7 executive officers. present perfect	→ The union has been run by 7 executive officers. past perfect	→ The union had been run by 7 executive officers.
going to	→ The union is going to be run by 7 executive officers.
will	→ The union will be run by 7 executive officers.
Other forms
infinitive	→ The union is to be run by 7 executive officers.
-ing form	→ The university insists on the union being run by 7 executive officers.
used to	→ The university used to be run by 7 executive officers.
modals	→ The university should be run by 7 executive officers.
need to / have to	→ The university needs to/has to be run by 7 executive officers.
need + -ing	→ The university needs running by 7 executive officers.

⚠ We do not use the passive with intransitive verbs (verbs which cannot have an object): he arrived (~~not he was arrived~~)

2 The passive: use

We use the passive

♦ when the object is more important than the subject and the agent is either obvious, not important, or unknown:

All applications are processed on the spot. (it is obvious that it is the library staff who process the cards)

♦ in formal writing to make it less personal:

You are advised to return the application form within three days. (impersonal)

The active voice is more direct and personal:

I advise you to return the application form within three days.

♦ when we describe a process:

The union is run by seven executive officers who are elected by students.

⚠ We do not generally use the passive for natural (or biological) processes, where people are not involved (e.g. the carbon cycle):

Plants take up carbon dioxide from the air as part of photosynthesis.

Notice how if we want to repeat the ending of the previous clause or sentence at the beginning of the next, we may need to use the passive:

Does the university run the union?

No, the union is run by seven executive officers who are elected by students each year.

The executive officers are held accountable by the union council.

The council is also elected by the student population.

This pattern is typical of academic writing.

3 Reporting with passive verbs

With reporting verbs and verbs of thinking or feeling we can use

♦ it + passive verb + that (e.g. agree, announce, argue, believe, claim, decide, disclose, expect, feel, hope, know, predict, recognize, report, say, suggest, think, understand):

It was felt that the facilities were in need of renovation.

♦ subject + passive verb + to-infinitive (e.g. ask, believe, consider, estimate, expect, feel, know, mean, report, say, see, suppose, think, understand):

Our sports facilities are said to be among the best in the country. (= people say our sports facilities are among the best in the country)

This building is believed to be the oldest in the town.

4 Have something done

To show that someone performs a paid service for us we use have + object + past participle:

You'll need to have your photo taken. (= someone else will take your photograph)

In informal English get + past participle can be used in the same way:

I got my photo taken yesterday.

5 Need + -ing

We can sometimes use need + -ing as an alternative to the passive to say that it is necessary to do something without stating who will do it:

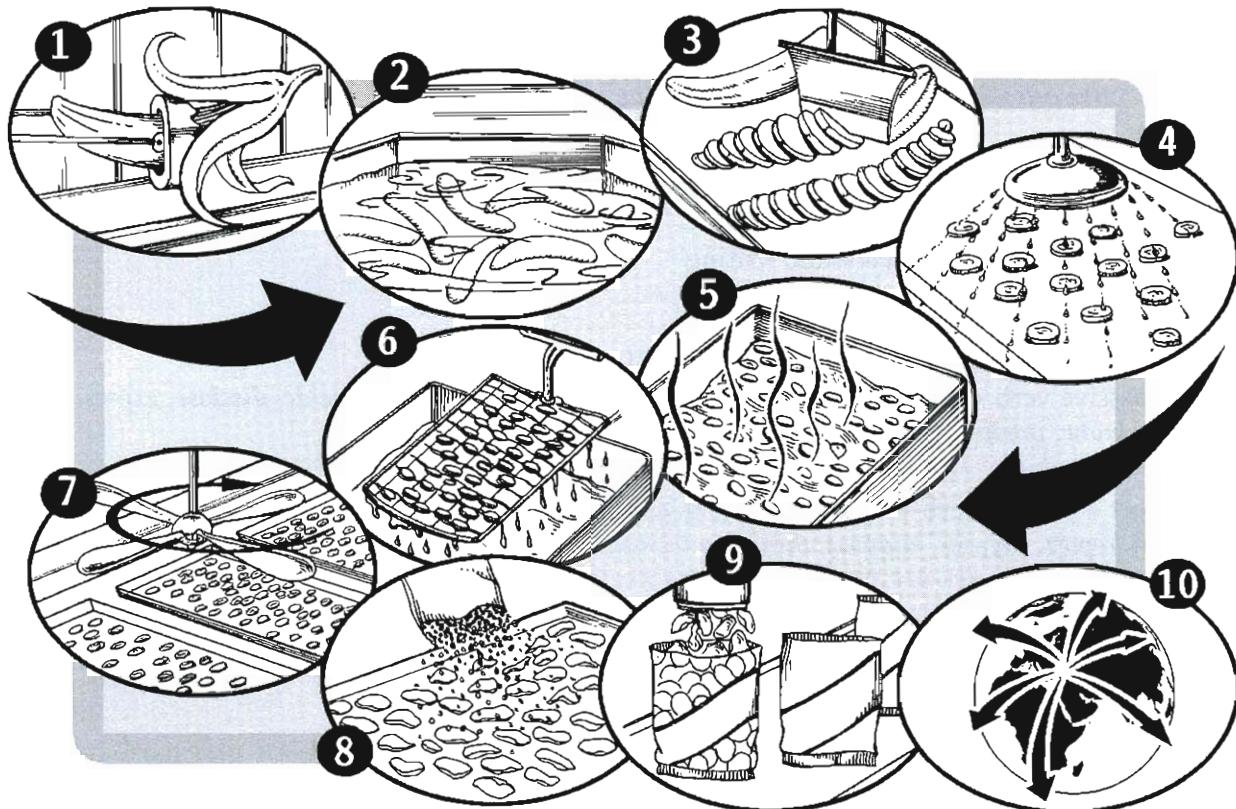

Some facilities need improving around the campus. (= it is necessary to improve some facilities)

Teacher: People are said that the increase in travel will lead to a loss of different cultures around the world. Do you agree?

Student: Well, yes, I suppose that is a possibility. I'm sure the way of life of many people around the world has changed by contact with tourists. But the change might have been happened anyway, I suppose.

Teacher: Yes, maybe. So, do you think we should try to stop the disappearance of native cultures?

Student: Oh, yes. I think it will be very sad if we lose different cultures. They enrich our world, don't they? But it is also argued that many people from poor countries have given opportunities that they wouldn't have had if there wasn't any tourism. Their cultures may have changed, but they have been benefited from improvements in education and health as well as their standard of living.

Teacher: So do you think that improvements like this inevitably bring about a loss of culture, as some people have been suggested?

Student: I suppose I do think that, yes. As we are continued to be provided with better and better education and we have more and more contact with the world outside our own countries, we are becoming more and more the same!

Teacher: Can you give some examples of what you mean?

Student: Well, in my country we now have American restaurants and we watch American movies on TV. American culture feels to be too dominant by many people in my country. And English words have been come into my language too.

Teacher: Oh, that's interesting. And do you think that there will one day be only one language in the world?

Student: Well, the way we live has affected in a big way by things like the Internet, email and cheap travel. All countries are using English for these things, and so we all know a little bit of English already. But I am not sure it will be used by all countries instead of their own language. That seems unlikely to me.

Teacher: You've made some very interesting points. Thank you.
